★ "OK Gran'maw! What no-good layabout have ya dragged home to supper THIS time?" ★

"Put that feg out, old man— my wife can actually HEAR ash when it's dropped on the carpet!"

"It's not that I don't love you— it's all the socks I'd have to darn."

AHOY! GIVE BOAT MEN MORE ROOM

By PAUL HUGHES

THE need for more "parking space" for boats was emphasised yesterday by Lord Jellicoe, First Lord of the Admiralty.

Opening the Boat Show at Earls Court, London, he said that a quarter of a million people go sailing round Britain's coasts.

The Minister added: "And these boats are chasing too few moorings. We have got to provide some facilities for them."

Lord Jellicoe said that many more reservoirs could be used for dinghy sailing and that gravel pits, rivers and canals could be further developed.

He added: "It is good to learn that things are at last moving."

Marina

"In the South and the South-East there are now proposals for yacht marinas at Poole, Lynton, Gosport, Warsash, Chichester, Brighton, Folkestone, Sheppey and Avington Castle, on the Medway." A marina is a parking place for boats.

One answer to the lack of moorings was on show—a dry land marina.

This scaffolding structure can be used to park boats in pigeon holes, like a multi-storey car park. The boats are stacked by a forklift truck.

Among the most popular exhibits was the "Boat of the Year," the red-sailed Mirror class dinghy, sponsored by the Daily Mirror.

The dinghy, costing only £63 11s. in kit form, is featured on Stand E3 and E7, on the main aisle.

In only a year's sailing, already nearly 900 of the dinghies have been sold—a record for a new class.

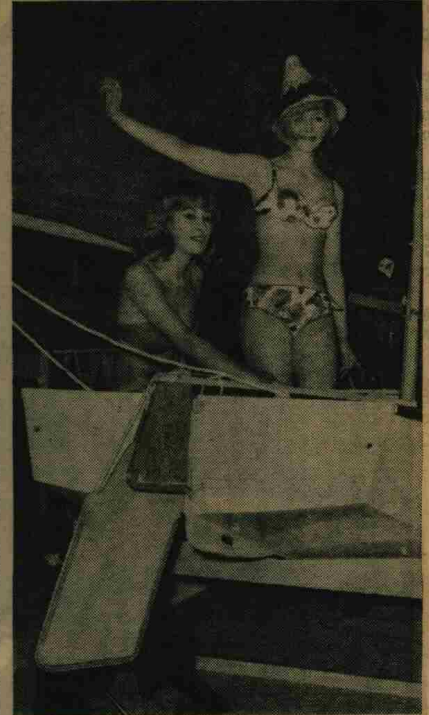

Boats varying from the most simple to the luxury yacht with central heating are on display.

On one side of the hall, 80-year-old John Christmas Thomas is making coracles—round, basket-like boats which were used by the Ancient Britons.

John, a roadsweeper, usually makes them in his workshops on the banks of the River Telfy, Cardiganshire. They cost £12.

On the other side of the exhibition there is the £22,700 "Emmeine," which can cruise for 700 miles without refuelling.

The show is organised by the Ship and Boat Builders' National Federation and sponsored by the Daily Express.

A pretty crew as you'd find anywhere. The girls, Liz Dutton (left) and Arlette Dobson (Miss England 1961) try out the Mirror dinghy for comfort at the Boat Show. The dinghy has attracted a lot of attention in the one season since it was introduced. The numbers sold are a record for any new class of boat.

New Way to Shrink Painful Piles without Surgery

New Healing Substance Relieves Pain, Stops Irritation, Shrinks Haemorrhoids

London (Special) Science has now discovered a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink piles. It is called "Bio-Dyne" skin respiratory factor and combines the discoveries of two famous research teams... a derivative of live yeast cells with remarkable anti-infective and stimulating powers, and a new wound-healing skin-covering factor produced from shark liver oil. "Bio-Dyne" has now been incorporated in "Preparation H" and in one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" has been reported. Pain and irritation were quickly relieved and at the same time actual retraction (shrinking) took place. In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers made such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem". All this without narcotics, anaesthetics or astringents! Ask your chemist about "Preparation H" the treatment containing revolutionary new "Bio-Dyne". Ointment 4/6d. Suppositories 6/- (Trial size 3/6d.).
